Subject: New Name and Description for BUS 493 - Team Design and Performance
Importance: High

Everyone,

Per Dr. Galardi's request, I have added voting buttons to this message (see above.) Please vote either to APPROVE or to REJECT the proposed change in the course name and description for BUS 493. I will be happy to answer any questions you might have.
New Name:  BUS 493 – Team Design and Performance
New Description:  This course examines the design and performance of work and decisional teams including team composition, authority, communication, roles, support, and leadership. This course will prepare the student to be a successful team member and leader by exploring team evolution, self-management, and conflict resolution. This course is recommended for juniors and seniors in any degree program.

Thank-you,
Christy

Subject: New Name and Description for BUS 493 - Team Design and Performance

All,

Attached is the Course Proposal for modifying BUS 493 – Leadership of Teams and Organizations to BUS 493 – Team Design and Performance. You might recall the discussion at our last meeting about changing the name and description of the course to more accurately reflect what is covered and to distinguish it from BUS 496 – Organizational Leadership.

The highlights are below.

New Name:  BUS 493 – Team Design and Performance
New Description:  This course examines the design and performance of work and decisional teams including team composition, authority, communication, roles, support, and leadership. This course will prepare the student to be a successful team member and leader by exploring team evolution, self-management, and conflict resolution. This course is recommended for juniors and seniors in any degree program.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns about this proposed change.
